Miraculous Prayer to the Little Flower

*O Little flower of Jesus, ever consoling troubled souls with heavenly graces, in our unfailing intercessions I place my confident trust. From the heart of our Divine Savior, petition the blessings of which I stand in greatest need.....Shower upon me your promised roses of virtue and grace, Dear St. Therese, so that swiftly advancing in sanctity and perfect love of neighbor, I may someday receive the crown of life eternal.
Amen*

Lectio divina can soften our hearts during Lent

by Dr. Peter Kwasniewski

February 18, 2020 (LifeSiteNews) —During the season of Lent, it is good to concentrate on a positive Lenten practice. In her book Cistercian Europe: Architecture of Contemplation, Terryl Kinder writes: "Lectio divina is not reading as we understand it nowadays, which is reading for information. Lectio divina is quite another form of reading, namely, reading for transformation. It is a slow rumination of the words of Scripture." Kinder reminds us that the words were read slowly with the moving of the lips, not just silently in one's mind, as we typically do when we read. The purpose of actually saying the words softly and repeatedly is to give them room to "breathe," to burrow into our memories, to be absorbed, and to make a difference in how our thoughts move.

Kinder again: "In lectio divina the words are chewed, digested, and absorbed as food is chewed, digested, and absorbed; and just as physical food is metabolized and transformed into the material of one's own body, so in lectio divina the spiritual food of the sacred texts is metabolized and transformed into the substance of one's own soul. It is an assimilation of the text into oneself."

We stand to benefit the most from picking one Gospel or Epistle of St. Paul and reading it slowly, chapter by chapter, throughout Lent, even re-reading parts of it more than one day in a row. We can also profitably take up a daily missal and read carefully one or the other reading of the day's Mass. . . . When we walk slowly through a reading in solitude, what we may have heard many times at Mass without taking much notice can suddenly strike us and transform us.

Where do we learn how to listen? In the quiet; when we are not working, acting, doing, but simply being present. . . This Lent, let us first be receivers of the Word, like Our Lady, so that we can then be doers of it. Set aside ten or fifteen minutes (or more, if you can) first thing in your day; sit down with the Bible (and perhaps a cup of coffee, which some find an indispensable aid to early morning prayer); begin with a prayer; and set to reading that short passage slowly, making the words with your lips, repeating the verses, pondering, and letting the words draw forth from you a response in your own words, in the form of a prayer to the Lord.
